Kendall's Spavin Cure.

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain it effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER,

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District.
ST. ALBANS, VT., Jan., 20, 1880.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with Kendall's Spavin Cure has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ringbone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found. Respectfully yours,
P. N. GRANGER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

STROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880.

B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with Kendall's Spavin Cure, one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me it will be very great.
Respectfully yours,
CHAS. E. PARKER.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach a every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for beast as well as man.

Price $1. per bottle, or six bottles for $5. ALL DRUGGISTS have it or can get it for you or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors. DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO. Enosburgh Falls, Vermont. 127d.

A FLYING TRIP.

BY N. Y. ACKER.

Mrs. Acker, and yours, until my funeral, expected to have gone to the city last week, but we, didn't get there for the following pesky reasons:

We were somewhat late for the train, owing, so says Mrs. N. Y. A., to my inborn carelessness; but I claim I contracted the habit about the time my wife became the possessor of a marriage certificate.

Mrs. Acker was hustling around putting on her duds, when she happened to think that she wanted a pair of gloves which had been left up-stairs, and I must scoot up-stairs and get the desired hand-squeezers.

The going up was as long in being accomplished as the construction of the Washington monument, but the downward motion! Scissors and shears! Wasn't that expedient? But I hardly think I came down easy.

And now that I come to reflect over the matter, I know I did not. No, siree, I didn't. I came down hard, very, very hard, on the floor at the foot of the stairs, and there I sat investigating the lump on the rear of my cranium, abrasion on my elbow, and—and—but I'll not enumerate. I received a souvenir from each step of the stairs.

The final objection upon which I bumped was my hat, and it being what is commonly designated as a stove-pipe, of course it was ruined beyond a possibility of resurrection.

Before serenity reigned again the hackman had nearly worn out the clapper of the door-bell, trying to make the Acker family understand that it was time to adjourn the debating society.

We shook things up lively and accompanied by a hat out of the rag-bag, tumbled into the hack and rattled away to the depot, where we arrived just in time to catch on the rear platform as the train was moving out.

Mrs. Acker scrambled up first, and took some seconds at it, and me grasping the rail, making frantic efforts to keep up with the accelerated motion of the car, while about every rod I would slap one foot down upon the ground with the force of a sledge hammer, with the seeming result of driving my heel up through the spinal column, and taken up lodgings in the nape of my neck.

Thus I went bravely on emulating the antics of the mythical flying-eater of sauer kraut.

"Hi! whoop! Go in, old, flying-machine I'll bet on yer," shouted an urchin, who was standing by the side of the track, while a mongrel cur came tearing, yelping out, thinking my coat tails were a flock of geese, which he was in duty bound to frighten off.

The cars at length gained such headway that my feet only touched the ground once in every three and nine-tenths rods, my hair was letting go of the scalp and I breathed by jerks, when the brakeman came out and hauled me upon the platform.

Just after I had succeeded in regaining my breath, out rushed the conductor followed by Mrs. Acker.

The conductor shouted:

"Are you this woman's husband?"

"I'll be dod slivered if I am not: that is, what there is left of me."

"Well, then, gim'e your tickets."

"Haven't got any. I have just been hauled on this gosh slammed car, without time to say Jack Robinson, let alone buying tickets."

"Then I must have the money."

I shoved my hand in my pocket and pulled out my—keys.

In my hurry I had left my purse at home.

I jumped upon my feet, and started at Brassbuttons, who said:

"Come, come—tickets or money."

"Well, darn my looks if I've got either."

"Then you must get off at the next station."

"What!" shrieked I, in amazement.

"You presume to pretend that you are going to put me off this train—me, Nimble Yankee Acker, esq.?"

"Yes!"

"Great Scott! Why, sir, I'm a writer—an author, sir!"

"Don't know you. Come down with the money or off you go."

"Whew! but—"

"Come—the money. I haven't time to be fooling with a hatless lunatic," Brass-buttons, as he slammed the door, through which issued the titters of the passengers.

"Hatless!" I clasped my hand on my forehead. "Good heavens, I am disgraced!"

I subsided.

We got off at the next station, and I looked around for a conveyance to take us home, but no one would let me have one without the money.

Finally I came across a man who compromised by driving us home, making me promise to pay him immediately after arriving, and let him wear my nickel-plated watch until he had the lucre in his paw.

I didn't feel like pushing the experiment further, therefore did not try to buy a hat, but make a turban of Mrs. Acker's shawl.

We met several parties on the road, and were often greeted with the exclamation: "Gypsies, by hooky."

Mrs. Acker declares she will not be good enough to go to church again until after next communion Sunday.

I am now convalescing.

The Homes of the Codfish.

Stretching for hundreds of miles southward and southeastward of Newfoundland, and sixty miles from shore at the nearest point, is the Grand Bank of Newfoundland, that mystic table-land of the sea, whose limits and nature are still undefined. A little way oceanward from its slopes the sea reaches some of its greatest depths, and within its boundaries are depressions where the fisherman's anchor never touches bottom. Old codfishers say that the Grand Bank is steadily rising, and that a few centuries will find it jutting above the surface. The Grand Bank, with its adjuncts, is some six hundred miles long and from two to three hundred miles wide. The shallows over it vary from ninety to four hundred feet in depth. The Grand Bank is, beyond comparison, the finest fishing ground in the world. For centuries the fishermen have visited it, and millions on millions of tons of codfish have been taken there, but still the yield is undiminished. Sometimes for two or three years the fish will be scarce, and the report will spread that the bank is "fished out," when suddenly a year of unprecedented catches will give the lie to the notion. For about six months in the year, beginning with May, the codfish swarm, not only over the Grand Bank, but, in lesser size and numbers, along the whole North American shore from the latitude of New York to an unknown distance northward. They are found from the eastern waters of Long Island to the furthest extremes of Labrador, and even up to the regions of eternal ice. What lures the cod from the ocean depths to which he goes in winter is not certainly known, but it is surmised that he either follows up the small shore fish or seeks the sea-cherry—a small red berry that often grows on the weedy bottoms where the cod is found. It is also pretty well established that during the summer visit shoreward the female fish spawns. The immense race of cod, far outnumbering all the other large fish of the sea, is accounted for by its fecundity. Nine millions of eggs have been computed as the roe of a large specimen, and all the codfish caught by man are a mere cipher compared with the billions, large and small, swallowed by sharks and other fish of prey.

The game law of the state went into operation March 1st.

A GREAT deal of whisky has already been shipped abroad to avoid the tax.

The Republicans of Cincinnati have nominated L. L. Sadler as their candidate for Mayor.

The stable of M. J. Chase's piano works at Richmond, Ind., burned on Saturday. Loss $1,000.

MR. D. LAYTON CLIFTON, of Greenup county, is out as a candidate for Superintendent of Public Instruction.

A VOTE will be taken at the annual election next August upon calling a convention to make a constitution for the State.

A MOVEMENT is alleged to be on foot to nominate Senator Sherman for Governor of Ohio, with a view, in the event of his election, of pressing him as a Presidential quality in 1884.

MR. GEO. F. WILLIAMS, the New York Herald Commissioner, detailed to distribute the Herald Relief Fund among the needy towns along the Ohio, arrived in Cincinnati Saturday. He will start on a voyage of inspection to-day in the U. S. steamer Lily. The funds at his disposal will probably amount to $40,000.

THE New York Sun in speaking of the Democratic strength in the next United States Senate says: The Democrats re-elected ten of their Senators whose terms expired on the 4th of March, viz: Morgan, Garland, Saulsbury, Beck, Lamar, McPherson, Ransom, Butler, Harris and Coke. They are all trained legislators, and most of them are able men. Gibson, who takes the seat of Kellogg, from Louisiana, has acquired an excellent standing in the House for capacity and for character. Kenna, who follows Davis, of West Virginia, possesses the elements for distinction, if they are wisely directed. Colquitt, the successor of the late Ben Hill, is not in the first rank, but he is a sound and practical man, who will make few mistakes. Altogether, while the Republicans have the advantage of numbers collectively, the Democrats are much stronger intellectually than their opponents. Both parties are deficient in great leadership.

NEWS BREVITIES.

The ship Dunstaffnage, from Calcutta via Dundee for Liverpool, has been lost on the coast of Aberdeenshire. Fifteen men besides a number of women and children were drowned.

The prison surgeon said that Chas. Hanson, who was awaiting trial for murder at McKeesport, Pa., could not live more than a day or two and his family made preparations for a funeral. Next morning he had departed, but not from his life for his illness was a clever pretence to enable him to escape.

At 1 o'clock the other morning some consternation was created in the House of Commons by the discovery of a stranger in the gallery with his hat on. The outrage remained unchecked for some time, the attendants being under the impression that he was a new member. When called to order, the stranger explained that he saw gentlemen "down there" wearing their hats, and he thought the custom might be general.

The conduct of a Cincinnati physician is under criticism. He found himself in a case which baffled his knowledge, and, when the patient grew steadily and hopelessly worse, he did not acknowledge his dilemma, nor ask for a consultation. On being dismissed he refused to place all the information in his possession at the disposal of his successor, but left the sick chamber in confusion, declaring that he would rather see the man die than saved by another's skill.

The French, having neglected Berlioz during his life time, are bent upon erecting a splendid monument on his tomb, and a very influential committee has been formed in Paris for the purpose of raising the necessary funds. The Vicomte H. Delaborde, Secrétaire Perpetuel de l'Académie des Beaux Arts, is President of the Committee, which includes all the leading musicians of France, such as Ambroise Thomas, Gounod, Ernest Reyner, Massenet, Saint-Saens, Colonne and Pasdeloup.

An old man was threatened with death by a really harmless negro at Somerville, O., and several of the village wags kept him in terror for months by making him believe that his life was in peril. When the lapse of time had reassured him, they laid a plan for reviving the fun. He was told one evening that the negro intended to waylay him, and several young fellows volunteered to escort him home. At a dark spot on the way a blackened joker sprang out, and pretended to fire upon him. The frightened old man fell instantly and died.

A petition was presented to the Jersey States Assembly on February 22d, calling attention to the extensive purchase of property in the island by the Society of Jesus, the members of which are settling there in large numbers. The petitioners remind the Assembly that in 1842 an attempt on behalf of the Jesuits to obtain a footing in the island by the purchase of property was prevented on the ground of the danger which was anticipated. They maintain that such a danger is now becoming imminent, and pray the Assembly to take the matter into serious consideration.

The progress of the phylloxera in Italy is causing serious alarm. Many districts have been more or less infected; in Sicily the malady has assumed formidable proportions. Acting upon the recommendations of a Parliamentary Committee, the Minister of Agriculture has resolved to endeavor to destroy all the tainted vines without delay, and a commission of experts has been appointed to work out details. It is believed that it will be possible to replace the eradicated plants by fresh vines from America in three years; but the peasantry appear ignorant of the value of preventive measures, and only see a present loss; so they take to rioting.

The coffee blight, after causing serious ravages in Ceylon and in Fiji Islands, seems to have spread to Brazil. The Brazilian Minister of Agriculture is at present engaged in devising measures for stopping its destructive progress in the plantations of that country. One of the Councillors of State has forwarded a report to the Minister on the present condition of one of the largest Brazilian coffee plantations, on which the usual annual yield of over two hundred tons of coffee has fallen to an insignificant amount. According to one theory, the blight is caused by a minute needle-shaped parasite, which is produced by millions in the roots; while others attribute the mischief exhaustion of the soil and neglect of weeding.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

MONDAY EVE., MARCH 19, 1883.

ROSSER & McCARTHY,
PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

"Settle all yo' little troubles 'bout the aid ob court hus' law,
Or yo'll find yo' mouf is holdin' mo' dan yo' kin ebber chaw."

MAYOR JANUARY suggests another charity lecture.

THE latest demand in Lexington is for an illuminated clock.

THE Oder murder trial at Falmouth closed with a hung jury.

NEXT Sunday being Easter, the season of "sackcloth and ashes" closes.

THE Catholic congregation at Winchester, Ky., are about to put up a handsome church building.

THE friends of Neal and Craft are said to be making powerful efforts to secure a pardon for these offenders.

ALBERT TAYLOR and Sam. Sheppard, both colored, were fined $5 each in the Mayor's court to-day, for resisting an officer.

AN honest old Irishman who witnessed the parade on Saturday was overheard to say: "St. Patrick's Day bates the Fourth of July."

THE audience at the M. E. Church, South, Saturday evening was so large that many persons failed to obtain seats. The services were unusually interesting.

THERE will be a young people's meeting at the M. E. Church, South, this afternoon at four o'clock, conducted by Prof. B. F. Bristow. There will be preaching in the evening at half-past seven o'clock.

MR. HORACE JANUARY has decided to give his Front street dwelling a pressed brick front, and to add to it another story, the whole to be covered by a French roof. Mr. J. R. Sousley will probably do the work.

FATHERY BRADY's lecture on the subject of "Intemperance" at the Court House Saturday evening proved to be very entertaining and instructive. He was listened to by an audience that packed the room to its utmost capacity.

IT is stated that the average cost of production of an acre of wheat is $10.50. It costs no more, except in the one item of manure, to raise a large crop than a small one, and every bushel over the amount necessary to pay the expense of the crop, brings in the profit to the farmer's pocket.

MESSRS. GEO. COX & SON are just now displaying an unusually handsome and varied stock of dry goods for the spring and summer trade. The ladies will find at this establishment everything that is new and desirable in dress goods and other articles of feminine apparel. The stock has been selected with great care and will be sure to suit the most cultivated taste.

ST. PATRICK'S Church on Sunday evening, the occasion of the closing services of the Mission, was filled by the largest audience that ever assembled in that building, a striking evidence of the high appreciation by the public of the good work done here by the Missioners. The administration of the Papal Blessing to the entire congregation present was most solemn and impressive. The same ceremony was administered in the afternoon at the children's meeting. Father Leo and Father Timothy will probably leave for a new field to-day.

PERSONALS.

The Enquirer of Sunday says: Ollie Smith severs his connection on the 1st of April with the firm of Hill & Smith, and will associate himself with the firm of Pearce & Duke, of Maysville.

The following is from the Covington Commonwealth of the 16th inst:

Yesterday evening a very pleasant surprise party was given at the residence of J. B. Briney, by the members and friends of the Fifth Street Christian Church, of which Mr. Briney is pastor. It is supposed that about one hundred persons were present, all of whom seemed to enjoy themselves in a high degree. A marked feature of the occasion was the presence of quite a number of young people, who did much to make the evening one long to be remembered for the social good cheer by which it was characterized. Having spent the evening in social conversation, and music led by Prof. Gale, the chorister of the church, the guests partook of refreshments spread by themselves and dispersed leaving behind them barrels of flour, hams, sugar, coffee, fruits, table linen, bed spreads, &c., &c., and last, but not least, kindly impressions upon the hearts of Mr. Briney and his family that will never be erased. Such occasions are well calculated to strengthen and sweeten the ties that exist between the church and its pastor.

THE masque party at the handsome country residence of Miss Mamie Slack, Friday night, was the most recherche affair the club has as yet had. The event was a fitting finale for the last meeting for this winter. The costumes worn were elegant and in pleasing variety. The supper was one of the finest expositions of culinary art. The "Kitchen Guards" are now more enthusiastic than ever in their praise of the "Kitchen Belles," and it is their heartfelt wish that the Fern Leaf club may become perpetual.

The following is a list of the characters: Miss Carrie McAtee, young lady of fifty years ago.
Miss Amelia Wood, darkness and daylight.
Miss Sue Worthington, Duchess Undine.
Miss Lullie Shackelford, Pocahontas.
Miss Mamie Slack, night.

THE ladies of the Episcopal Church contemplate treating the people of Maysville, at an early day to another concert by "The Smith Family." The last appearance of these distinguished people in Maysville will be pleasantly remembered.

ACROSS THE RIVER.

MANCHESTER.

Forty hogheads of tobacco were shipped a few days ago from Rome, by the Bonanza.

James Fitzpatrick sold his tobacco for 12½ cents from the ground up.

Benjamin Bowman has gone to Maysville to work.

James Power and Miss Nettle Cropper were united in marriage at the M. E. Parsonage, on Sunday evening last, at 7 o'clock, by Rev. W. M. Boyer, May the choicest blessing be bestowed upon them.

Mrs. Anna Lowery and Miss Anna Childs, of Maysville, were visiting at Geo. Lowery's last week.

I noticed while on the wharfbat the other day a coop containing four wild geese. They had been shipped from Gayoso, Mo., to O. P. Mathias, of this county.

Capt's. Edgington and Frost's new boat, was taken up the river Tuesday by the towboat Sea Lion to receive her machinery.

He Could Sympathize With Him.

Theophilus Wiggleton could cawl out through a smaller hole than any other man in town; I mean by that he could shirk responsibility; and especially creep away from paying his honest debts. In this latter respect he was both slippery and brazen. Here is a case directly to the point. Homer Harvey was known as one of the best natured and most accommodating tailors. He had entered the name of Theophilus Wiggleton in his books believing him to be what he would appear to be—worth money under that impression he had made for him two suit of clothes of the finest cloth; after that he had furnished him a third suit, for fear of losing what was already due should he irritate the man by refusing him. And now Harvey wanted his money. We wanted it very much. The bill amounted to little more than $100, and the debtor had many times promised that in a very few days the money should be forthcoming. One bright summer's day the tailor met this delinquent customer and caught him by the sleeve.

"Wiggleton, my dear man, can you let me have the amount of my bill against you this morning?"

"O!—ho! ho! It's you, my dear old fellow! How are you?" And gave him a handgrasp that was warm and hearty. "Say, Harvey, are you pressed? Do you owe anybody that ought to be paid at once?"

From the look of Wiggleton's eyes, as he gave a sidelong glance from it, the tailor believed, if he should own to being in debt to others, that the fellow would retort that it was very unprincipled of him to press him for money. So he answered in the negative.

"No," he said, "I don't owe; and I don't mean to if I can help it."

"Aha!—good, good!" cried Theophilus gladly. "If you are owing nobody, of course you cannot need money. At all events, you don't need it one-half so much as I do; for I am in debt. But don't worry, Harvey. It shall come some time."

The tailor turned away in disgust, and in partial despair.

The next time he asked the many for money he wouldn't give him any such hole through which to crawl away.

The next time came. Harvey met his man at the hotel bar.

"Ah, Wiggleton! You are just the man I have been wishing to see. Can you make it convenient to pay that little bill to-day?"

"My dear Harvey, are you really in need?"

"I am; desperately so!"

"Mercy! You don't owe anybody else money do you?"

"I do, I owe a large sum!"

"Aha! Good, good!" grasping the tailor's hand. "Now, my dear fellow, you can sympathize with me. We're both in the same box. But don't let us fret. We'll keep our shoulder to the wheel—keep our courage up, my boy, and we'll come out all right. Never fear. Have a drink!"

M. Barthelemy Brunow, a French metallurgist, is credited with the discovery of a reducing substance which so wondrously promotes the liquefaction of iron ore that he has been enabled to reduce the ore to pig metal in the short space of fourteen minutes.

M. de Lesseps is at present engaged in studying the plans for the projected canal across the Isthmus of Malacca, a work which, when carried out, will abridge by four days the voyage of vessels plying between Europe and the far East via the Suez Canal. The King of Siam, who takes a warm interest in the project, has sent his portrait to its promoter, and has written under it, in his own hand, "To my good friend Ferdinand Lesseps."

Scorpions.

A gentleman writing of life in Brazil, in the London Field, gives the impression that scorpions—as well as other biting and stinging things—are too numerous there to be pleasant. Scorpions are frequent travelers, too, getting on board ships as stowaways. The writer says that over a dozen were killed in his cabin during one fortnight, brought there, no doubt, in a box of Espirito Santa orchids from Panama. Cargoes of coir, bananas and other fruits and vegetables in bulk often introduce them on board vessels, and in old wooden ships especially they will remain and colonize the bulkheads and interspaces.

I got a nip once, and only once. Walking along the main deck of a steamer lying in Rio de Janeiro, loading up with coffee, being barefooted and in the dark, I trod, as I thought, on a piece of glass; but drawing my foot up instinctively, I felt the tickling of a scorpion's tail on my heel.

It seemed to have curled up after its tail. The local symptoms were about equal in intensity to the bite of a common viper, or the sting of a mirabunda, but with less constitutional derangement; the ulcer was a long time in healing, however.

There is a story told of a gentleman in India, who, pulling on his boots one morning, felt a horrid prickly object in one of them. With great presence of mind, instead of withdrawing it, he forced his foot violently down and stamped on it furiously, though enduring exquisite agony in the process. But it was not a centipede, only a small blacking-brush left there by a careless servant.

The Psylli of Pliny and other historians, as well as their modern descendants, who swallow live scorpions and carry them in their hats next their shaven crowns, probably deprive them first of their means of doing harm, as they serve the venomous serpents with which they juggle by blunting their stings. It is, nevertheless, very easy to hold a scorpion, and possibly to handle them freely, when accustomed to them.

Killed the Wrong Hens.

An irascible sea-Captain settled down to Portland life by the side of a well-tempered man, and the two got along very well until the hen question came up. Said the Captain:

"I like you as a neighbor, but I don't like your hens, and if they trouble me any more I'll shoot them."

The mild-mannered neighbor studied over the matter some, but knowing the Captain's reputation well by report, he replied:

"Well, if we can't get along any other way, shoot the hens, but I'll take it as a favor if you will throw them when dead over into our yard and yell to my wife."

"All right," said the Captain.

The next day the Captain's gun was heard, and a dead hen fell in the quiet man's yard. The next day another hen was thrown over, the next two, and the next after three.

"Say," said the quiet man, "couldn't you scatter them along a little? We really can't dispose of the number you are killing."

"Give 'em to your poor relations," replied the Captain, gruffly.

And the quiet man did. He kept his neighbors well supplied with chickens for some weeks.

One day the Captain said to the quiet man:

"I have half a dozen nice hens I'm going to give you if you'll keep quiet about this affair."

"How is that," said the quiet man. "Are you sorry because you killed my hens?"

"Your hens?" said the Captain. "Why, sir, those hens belonged to my wife! I didn't know she had any until I fed you and your neighbors all summer out of her flock."—Portland (Me.) Transcript.

—A young would-be wit in Lewiston, Me., who attempted to chaff a half-intoxicated lumberman, was greeted with: "I mind my own business. I know what you are. We make No. 2 clothes-pins out of such stock as you up our way. You fit!"

AYER'S Hair Vigor

restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray hair to a natural, rich brown color, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use light or red hair may be darkened, thin hair thickened, and baldness often, though not always, cured.

It checks falling of the hair, and stimulates a weak and sickly growth to vigor. It prevents and cures scurf and dandruff, and heals nearly every disease peculiar to the scalp. As a Ladies' Hair Dressing, the Vigor is unequalled; it contains neither oil nor dye, renders the hair soft, glossy, and silken in appearance, and imparts a delicate, agreeable, and lasting perfume.

MR. C. P. BRICHER writes from Kirby, O., July 3, 1882: "Last fall my hair commenced falling out, and in a short time I became nearly bald. I used part of a bottle of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, which stopped the falling of the hair, and started a new growth. I have now a full head of hair growing vigorously, and am convinced that but for the use of your preparation I should have been entirely bald."

J. W. BOWEN, proprietor of the McArthur (Ohio) Enquirer, says: "AYER'S HAIR VIGOR is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair, and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a sure cure for dandruff. Not within my knowledge has the preparation ever failed to give entire satisfaction."

MR. ANGUS FAIRBAIN, leader of the celebrated "Fairbairn Family" of Scottish Vocalists, writes from Boston, Mass., Feb. 6, 1880: "Ever since my hair began to give silvery evidence of the change which fleeting time procureth, I have used AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, and so have been able to maintain an appearance of youthfulness—a matter of considerable consequence to ministers, orators, actors, and in fact every one who lives in the eyes of the public."

MRS. O. A. PRESCOTT, writing from 18 Elm St., Charlestown, Mass., April 14, 1882, says: "Two years ago about two-thirds of my hair came off. It thinned very rapidly, and I was fast growing bald. On using AYER'S HAIR VIGOR the falling stopped and a new growth commenced, and in about a month my head was completely covered with short hair. It has continued to grow, and is now as good as before it fell. I regularly used but one bottle of the Vigor, but now use it occasionally as a dressing."

We have hundreds of similar testimonials to the efficacy of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. It needs but a trial to convince the most skeptical of its value.
